“What drew me to employment law was the overarching sense of connectedness this field brings. Almost everyone works in an employer-employee dynamic, which touches the lives of billions of people across the globe. To be able to contribute to the rich tapestry of the law and do so in a way that helps better the working conditions, and the lives of employers/employees across so many disparate industries is a truly unique and satisfying experience.”

Adam Turton is an associate in the firm's San Francisco office. Adam is an experienced employment law litigator. His specialties include handling discrimination lawsuits particularly disability claims, assisting employers with creating workplace violence prevention plans, and pursuing restraining orders for trade secrets disputes.

Adam enjoys hiking, playing piano (especially jazz!), karaoke, fishing, and single malt scotch in his spare time.
